If you receive an email stating that Fidelity information "appears to be outdated or incorrect" (see below) - this email is not from Fidelity and the link will not go to Fidelity's website. Do NOT click on any links in the email.

The screenshot shows an email interface with a green header. The Fidelity logo is in the top left. The header contains "Dear Customer" on the left and "Secure Login" with a lock icon on the right. The main content area has a white box with a green arrow icon and the heading "Your security is our priority". Below this, it states: "Some information on your account appears to be outdated or incorrect. We have put a temporary hold on your account activities till you logon and verify your correct contact information. Kindly logon and verify your personal and account information." A blue link "Click Here To Confirm" is provided. The email ends with "Thank you, Fidelity Investments". To the right of the main message is a "Quick Links" section with a link to "fidelity.com". At the bottom, there is a promotional box for "Rollover IRA" with a broken image icon and the text "90% of reviewers of a Rollover IRA would recommend it to their friends." and a link "Read all reviews".
